

Processed by: VJA
Date: 10/31/05

HAUGE

HAUGE, GABRIEL

OH-525

28 pgs.

PRCQ

Research director for campaign staff, Dwight D. Eisenhower, 1952; presidential assistant for economic affairs, 1953-58.

DESCRIPTION: Involvement in the research unit of the draft-Eisenhower movement in 1951; speech writing for the 1952 campaign; Eisenhower's expertise on economic issues; Eisenhower's views on domestic policy; Wisconsin speech and omitted paragraph about George Marshall; Eisenhower's theory on how to deal with Joe McCarthy; Eisenhower's 'I shall go to Korea' speech; events leading to Hauge's position as economic advisor to the President; economic matters early in the Administration; the White House staff system; Sherman Adams; ease of access to the President; Eisenhower as a decision maker; activity of the anti-trust division; Eisenhower's attitude toward Richard Nixon as running mate in 1956; agricultural price supports.

[Columbia University Oral History Project, interview by Herbert Parmet, June 19, 1969]