SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection consists of materials used by John S.D. Eisenhower (the second son of Dwight D. and Mamie Eisenhower) to edit and publish a collection of Dwight D. Eisenhower’s personal letters entitled Letters to Mamie.

The first half of the collection consists of reproductions of Dwight D. Eisenhower’s handwritten letters to Mamie Doud Eisenhower dating from 1942 to 1945. A description of their history and content is available in the book’s editor’s note. The letters appear in their unedited entirety in this collection and show that in some cases multiple paragraphs were edited out of the published letter transcriptions. Paragraphs edited from the letters for publication include references to the immediate example of correspondence and how it is expected to be delivered, references to the activities of family and friends, a desire for more frequent correspondence, and closings among other topics.

This collection of correspondence also contains letters that were not published in Letters to Mamie. Some appear among the folders titled “Eisenhower Letters” and are identified by date in the folder description. Over 40 additional letters appearing in this collection were considered for inclusion in the book and subsequently rejected. These additional letters are marked with an “X” and appear in the folders entitled “Eisenhower Letters Not Used in Book: 1942” and “Eisenhower Letters Not Used in Book: 1942-45.”

The second half of the collection consists of the book’s galley proofs, foundry proof, and final proof. These proofs contain corrections, notes, edits, and annotations on matters including everything from content to typeface.
